The top mandala you take 2 x 2 dowels/bamboo skewers or larger, and 6 different colours of yarn.

Join the first 2 dowels by tying the yarn to one stick and crossing the other over like a cross in the centre of each dowel. Then in rotation wrap each stick once and move on to the next one. When you have a nice square that is an 1" or so across tie off the string and repeat with other two dowels and yarn of a different colour.

Then overlap the two sets so that one set of dowels fits between the other so you have 8 spokes. Attach another colour of yarn to a stick and start wrapping each dowel all the way around attaching the sets to each other (ribs should be facing each other in-between the sets).

When you have a 1/2" or so of yarn in width, tie it off.

Next tie on another piece of yarn and start wrapping the dowels but skip every second one, forming a square, do this until you have the width you would like. Then on the dowels you missed start another colour of yarn and wrap all the dowels missed forming another square.

Continue as you are inspired. The second Youtube video shows you how you can wrap dowels to create tips, and how to form a star
